Machine Geared Up For Most

Big Red Activities

The Big Red Marching Machine is "energetic!" That's right, energetic! You'd have to be to rush outside in the snow, rain, and sleet just to freeze at attention while practicing for a football game the next night. The Marching Machine has pride, spirit, color, and spark. The Marching Machine is made up of different students from the honors, varsity and cadet bands. These are different groups which make up the Marching Machine. Others include the Tomahawks, Display Flags, Thunderbirds, Majorettes, and color guards. It takes a lot of hard work to create a machine like ours, one which has proved indestructible through the efforts of Mr. Payton and the band officers.

If you want to know a good recipe, just add many flashing colors, three heaping cups of pride, a big dose of spirit, and a few sparks. Then stand back and watch the Big Red Machine march by.

Obstacles Mark 1976 Float Building

Float building in 1976 faced unusual problems. Just ask the seniors and sophomores. Seniors Lori Herbert, Rob and Ron Grant, and Debbie Burnell helped launch their float to a good start. But building slowed gradually until the float came to a sudden stop (against a tree). The juniors were off to a slow start with Jerry Jowett, Kathy Grant, Pete Peterson, Mikey Hindes, and Annette Crimmins, just to name a few, working from the start. The juniors finished with a full house of workers. The sophomores were "right at home" building their float. Mary Shonka, Colleen Bright, and Howard Stevens along with others, worked hard. The sophomores had first place "wrapped up" until their float collapsed in the middle of 24th Street on the way to the parade. The Class of '80, like other freshman classes, was lost for a time. But they soon got it all together with the help of Rich Dusellier, Nancy Warner, and Brenda Dawson.

24 Groups Take Part In Homecoming

Parade

The Big Reds' Homecoming parade consists of a lot more than just the floats of the classes. Marching along the streets of Port Huron, filling the air with the cadence of marching and the sounds of music, is the Big Red Marching Machine. Nationally known for their travels and performances, spectators lined along the parade routes looking forward to seeing and hearing the latest edition of the Machine.

Mr. Eric Payton, along with his army of helpers and assistants, watched with pride as the Machine's various groups, such as the Sign Bearers, Display Flags, Color Guards, the Thunderbirds, as well as the Band itself, presented itself before the judging stand.

Also an important part of the parade was the long line of cars carrying such important people as the homecoming queen candidates and escorts.

Parade Opens Homecoming Festivities

Homecoming is like a sleepless night. In fact, that's what it is for dozens of Big Reds each year as they get the class floats and dance decorations ready for the BIG event.

The first climax in the homecoming melodrama is the parade. Hundreds of supporters either ride the floats or follow the parade along the parade route. This year's parade will long be remembered. First, the senior float hit a tree. Then the sophomore float lost its balance and landed in the street, holding up traffic for ten minutes. Later, the parade was held up while a replacement truck was rounded up when motor trouble sidetracked the power of one of the floats. But the parade continued. And finished. It was another important chapter in Big Red history.

Juniors Take First In Float Contest

"Futuristics" was the theme of the 1976 homecoming parade. Each of the classes tried to create the best idea and the best float. After many restless days and nights, the floats emerged out of their darkened hiding places and were exposed for all to see.

Unfortunately, several of the floats' beauty did not last long as a series of tragedies marred the parade. In the end, the judges gave first place honors to the JUNIORS.

Taking second place was the freshman float, followed by the sophomores. Sad to say, the seniors ended in last place. It should be noted, just for the record, that unfortunate accidents to the sophomore and senior floats affected the final judging. But in the end, it was a joyous day for the juniors.

Student

These two pages are dedicated to the enthusiasm that members of Student Council exhibited during homecoming.

Led by President Lynn Fiedler, the Student Council planned Big Red Week and Homecoming in such a way that students responded with great attendance at the games, parade, dance, and football game as well as during the special activities during Big Red week. One of the controversial changes made by this Council was the crowning of the homecoming queen at the dance, rather than at the game. As matters turned out, the rains made the decision a wise one. Another bonus was the better-than-average crowd at the dance.

All in all, Big Red Country was a great place to be for Homecoming, 1976.

Council Planning Generates Enthusiasm

Spirited Competition Highlites Games

The games of the 1976 Homecoming could easily rival the Olympics in competitiveness and spirit. Even though it was a gloomy, cloudy day, nobody present noticed it. Here are the final results:

Big Reds Lose Homecoming Game, 26-12

Although the Big Reds lost their homecoming football game to a powerful Roseville team, and although everyone, including the players, were a bit disappointed, the game was hard-fought and close right up to the end.

Both Big Red touchdowns were scored by Mishion Nickson. The first score was made by a long Nickson run. The second touchdown resulted when Lew Secory completed a pass to Russell, who then pitched to Nickson. The play was good for 30 yards and six points.

Although the defense gave a good effort, the Roseville offense displayed lots of talent and a big strong line that didn't quit.

Kathy Cogley Named Homecoming Queen

Being a candidate for homecoming queen in Big Red Country is not easy. It all begins when the seniors vote for the girls they most want to see as queen. The nominees are then narrowed to ten. These ten girls are then presented to the entire school, where they must walk that "long mile" under spotlights and the eyes of over 1600 fellow students. An election is then held and the three top vote getters are announced. The queen is crowned at the homecoming dance. The Big Red Queen for 1976 was Kathy Cogley. Senior runners-up were Debbie Carfore and Lori Herbert.

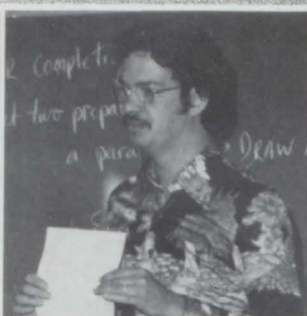

The junior candidates for the court were Kim Swafield and Lori Walsh. The sophomore nominees were Tina Walsh and Sandy Korth. The freshman members of the court were Diane Raskey and Kathy. The prime minister was Fred Meadows.

Wydrzynski Heads Administrative Team

Mr. Chester Wydrzynski, principal of Port Huron High School, directs the entire program in Big Red Country. He, along with his three assistant principals, establish school policy and routing. He also works with the department chairmen to see that policy is implemented. Special groups, such as the S.T.A.C., P.T.A., and various teacher groups also assist Mr. Wydrzynski in the creation and follow-up of what is done on campus.

Administra- tion Assistants Active

If our assistant principals were to be given grades for their work, they would each receive double A's - for awful active. Mr. Ufford is in charge of schedule and curricular planning. Mr. Haynes is in charge of finances while Mr. Lyszak is in charge of policy implementation.

Education Begins With English

The study of English involves the basis of the educational process. A variety of courses stresses reading, writing, and speech as the primary means of communication, both on an everyday level and on a literary level. In addition to the classics and the study of grammar, English also involves the latest in reading techniques, including teaching machines, scopes, and meters. All Big Reds become acquainted with the concepts of literary terminology, the process of writing, and American literature. Those who enjoy communicating also get into play-acting and production as well as the various aspects of journalism and photography.

Math Adds Up, Fast

Most students figure that it's a plus to take math courses because they add up, fast. But addition isn't the only thing that math offers. There's also subtraction, multiplication, geometry, probability, statistics, and algebra.

Next to English, math is perhaps at the basis of education. How can you go into a store, or buy your lunch, or guard your wallet without some understanding of math?

Science Sets Us Soaring

One of the places in high school where students get a "hands on" approach to learning is science. All the way from watching the Amoeba shuffle to rockets soaring, science gives insight into what makes things work. Biology, chemistry, and physics are the heart of the science program, and anyone who has the desire to learn is in one of these courses.

Not only do students bring specimens into the classroom, but they also travel far and wide on school sponsored field trips.

Home Ec Stresses Skills

Last year's master chef has grown better and gives the student practical use of restaurant skills and areas of home economics. Home Economics includes sewing, foods, and leisure time classes. There are three years of sewing. The classes can be fun if it is what you are interested in. Mrs. Niemi is in charge of sewing and leisure time classes; Ms. Browski is in charge of the food classes, and Miss Stevens is in charge of child development and home and family living classes. These classes can teach you many skills and can help you in the future. Their purpose is to provide basic homemaking skills.

Fine Arts Offers Self-Direction

The students at Port Huron High School work in art with techniques involving textile painting, clay, sculpture, silk screen, printing, drawing, and painting as well as chalk and charcoal.

Another part of the fine arts field is music. Here students are offered opportunities to sing or play an instrument. Music serves many purposes. It gives students a chance to relax and unwind or stimulate them to alertness. As one member of the Big Red Machine said, "Band really wakes you up in the morning."

The results of the work and effort are evident. Pots, jewelry, paintings, sculpture, and other art objects reveal the quality of student products. The halftime performances by the band, its trips and concerts, the assemblies by the choir as well as its shows, point to the involvement of the Big Reds in fine arts programs.

Not All Classes Follow Same Routine

Some of our classes follow the familiar routine that is expected of high school education. Others, however, give a little more attention to each of the individual students. One of these is Special Education. In this class, the students and teachers spend almost the entire day together, looking to improve skills in all of the basic subjects as well as in areas like typing, homemaking, and shop skills. Often the students get involved in special projects for themselves and the school. Perhaps in this class more than in most others the students are trying to learn skills that will not only be helpful after their school careers are over, but also things which can be put to immediate use.

Count In Business First

Shorthand, typing, book-keeping, and data processing are what count in the world of business these days, and they count here in our business department, too. Those students who figure that they can do well with numbers are attracted to the business courses. Not only are these courses valuable in preparing a student for a career, but they also come in handy in everyday life as well.

An important part of this department is co-op, a job-school cooperative program which allows students to attend school for part of the day and to hold a job the other part of the day. Over ten percent of the students are enrolled in this program.

Lighthouse Staff: FIRST: M. Powell, D. Carfore, T. Walker, S. Glombowski, and Ray Boswell. MIDDLE: F. Hebner, S. Sutton, K. Pemberton, M. Gofton, and Steve Lewis. TOP: Marion Moss, M. Spalding, and Joe Watson.

Lighthouse Beams News

This year's Lighthouse staff published eleven great issues of the school paper. For the Christmas issue they recorded an historic first. The staff published a twelve-page paper and gave everyone in the school a free copy as a Christmas gift. For the first time in years the paper published an editorial page. Ford Hebner and Mike Powell, pictured to the right, respectively, shared leadership roles.

Languages, Library

They may sound like foreigners, but the students you hear talking in lingo you may not understand are merely Big Reds learning to speak French, Spanish, or German. In addition to learning grammar and basic vocabulary, students also get involved in many related activities. These include plays, skits, games, and field trips stressing language learning. Teaching these languages are Miss Zuehlke, German; Mr. Hodge, French; and Mr. Owens, Spanish.

The library is one of the busiest places in the building. Teachers, students, and classes are forever coming and going. At the heart of this activity are the student librarians. Their job is to inventory, maintain, and keep track of the books as well as the Ludington reading room.

Gym Keeps Everyone In Shape

Just about everybody is interested in good health lately, and they have good reason. One of the best reasons is to stay in shape. There are all sorts of activities going on in gym all the time. Just about every sport is learned and practiced. These include basketball, volleyball, tennis and badminton. One of the interesting aspects about gym is that many of the classes are co-educational.

Gym class normally begins with a few exercises, such as jumping jacks, situps, leglifts, and squat-thrusts. This is so that pulled muscles can be avoided. This is then followed by practice and competition in one of the recreational sports taught in the class.

Social Studies — Understanding Society

Learning from past mistakes is an important part of acquiring an education. From this starting point, students in social studies build concepts about society and how to effectively get along in society. Throughout the year, students were able to listen to first hand accounts from guest speakers and filmed documentaries. The overall program stressed the study of government, political concepts and personalities, current events, and geographical areas.

The social studies teachers work hard to help students to understand the society in which we live. Through the various courses, the teachers work with ideas and facts which will help students to understand not only the problems of today, but those conditions of the past which brought them about.

Ind. Arts Offers Varied Program

Industrial arts is a highly beneficial program for both boys and girls. It gives them, if they wish to become a mechanic, an architect, an electrician, or a welder, a start on their careers. A lot of people are interested in shop and industrial classes because of the variety of choices available. These choices include woods, metals, power mechanics, general shop, machine shop, mechanical drawing, electronics, or welding.

Whatever your interest is, industrial arts probably offers it. The highly trained industrial arts teachers include Mr. Belt, department chairman, who teaches power mechanics. Mr. Bachler teaches woods and metals; Mr. Berger teaches machine shop; Mr. Bonito teaches woods; Mr. Hunter teaches welding and machine shop; Mr. Langolf teaches mechanical drawing; and Mr. Whitaker teaches electronics.

Skill Center Offers Job Training

The St. Clair County Skill Center is a new educational facility located at the junction of Smith Creek and Range roads in Marysville. About 160 Big Reds are offered a vocational program in many areas at the skill center. The programs include the following: public services - health care assistance, food management, and cosmetology; business and office - general merchandising, data processing, steno-clerical, and accounting - computing; transportation - auto mechanics and service, auto body repair, and small engine repair; construction and maintenance - building construction, building maintenance, and heating - ventilating - air conditioning; manufacturing - machine shop, welding, plastics manufacturing, and manufacturing skills; graphic communications - graphic arts, agricultural - ornamental horticulture; electrical - electronics and industrial electricity; public services - child care, commercial housekeeping, and clothing management.

The Electronics Club is sponsored by Mr. Whitaker. Members are from the electronics classes and meet whenever there is work to be done. The members repair TV sets, radios, clocks, C.B.'s, 8-tracks, stereos, and other items. Regular members pictured to the right include Mr. Whitaker, Jay Stockwell, Jim Munro, Fred Kristick, and Jim Zeplzauer.

C.B. Club Off To Smashing Start

Although the "ten-four, good buddy" slogan common to C.B.ers was not heard in the halls, club members do have their own handles and many have their own C.B.'s. Members held one of the year's most popular activities when they sponsor a "pitch pennies to pitch pies" contest. Mr. Payton, Mr. Peltz, and Mr. Frost were the targets of the pies. The $50 earned by the project was sent to a family wiped out by fire. Mike Cowles was elected president, Ron Donaghy vice-president, Robin Hindes secretary, Jim Thompson treasurer, and David Ehardt public relations.

Gridders End Rebuilding Season

Our young team finished a disappointing 0-8. There were some good points, however, like strong games against Roseville and Central. It was a young team with a good chance of improving next year for first-year head coach Rich King. Steve Gerstenberger led a hustling defense, and Lew Secory a poised offense. Paul Landschoot gained 100 yards in two games. Randy Dickenson was the leading tackler and Mishion Nickson was the run-back specialist. Dan Landshoot and Tyronne Burrell were given awards for their outstanding sportsmanship. Billed as a rebuilding season, it gave us something to look forward to next year, and left us with a disappointing, but sometimes exciting season this year.

Cross Country Rebuilding Season

Although the Cross Country team won only one out of the 12 matches they participated in, they tried hard all year before winning that last meet against St. Clair. Next year hopes to be an even better year for second year Head Coach Pinnix, with 6 starters returning. Charles Richards Award winner Dave Brown had the best time with a 16:14 average. He also finished 5th in the city meet.

Freshmen, J.V. Have Good Years

The J.V. football team led by coaches Misiak and Schneider attained a 3-6 won-loss record. Starting slow but finishing fast, they gave us a fine team to look forward to in the next few years.

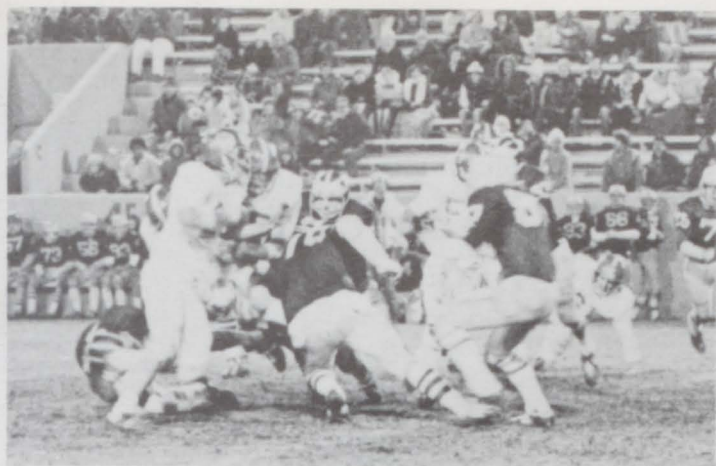

The freshman football squad, coached by Art Willick enjoyed a 2-5-1 season. Give or take a touchdown or two, the frosh could have come up with a winning record. These two teams along with the fact that we had a young varsity point to the fact that we should have a good football program in the years to come.

Golf Team Was On Par

Although the golf team coached by Don Wendling finished a poor 2-11, it made some notable achievements. It beat Northern for the first time in the school's history, 216-224. It also beat the top team in the E.M.L., Grosse Point South, 225-227. It also placed 3rd in the city and 5th in the E.M.L. The lowest average on this year's team was Dave White's with a 41. He also won the Black River Country Club Award. This year was also notable because it was the first time girls played on the team; Beth Campbell and Lynn Carson. With two lettermen returning it promises to be an even better season next year.

Reds Struggle Through Rebuilding Season

The Big Red Varsity basketball team had a disappointing season. Because last season's regulars had graduated, the team posted a lackluster 2-18 season.

The bright spot on the team was the performance of Anthony -"Noot" Malachi who sparked the Big Reds to their two victories. Chuck Tacia contributed high point totals in a number of games.

Coach Gene Boldon, however, is looking forward to next year. He played the sophomores and juniors often and when combined with the upcoming, talented J.V. players, next year's team may have a winning season.

Tennis Nets A Winning Season

Spring 1976 produced a fabulous tennis team. Coached by Mr. Hal Langolf, the team won 13 of 17. Captain Jack Belyea and most valuable player Kevin Cairns added to the team's exciting season. Coach Langolf said, "This team had a fantastic desire to win."

Kevin Cairns qualified for state finals in Kalamazoo. Kris Cook was 4th singles EML champ. Other key team members were Paul Cain and Mike Crimmins. Look forward to a winning season again this year with 7 lettermen returning.

J.V. Baseball Hustled All Year

Hustle was the key for the 1976 JV Baseball Team. The team played hard last year doubling their wins over the previous year. They won eight and lost thirteen. "With team work and spirit we should have a very strong varsity team this year," said Coach Tim Owens.

Varsity Baseball Posts Winning Record

One thing that can be said for the Varsity baseball team this year, is that it had its ups and downs. They started by winning the first 10 games. But then dropped the next nine. They ended the season 13-11 and 8-6 in the E.M.L.

All the games were exciting. A couple of new records were set. Senior Larry Jones had 26 hits this season, setting a record for hits, while attaining a .413 batting average. Steve Stocker also placed himself in the books with 17 pitching victories and 96 strikeouts. Both of these players shared the Old Timers' Award for most valuable player.

Seniors Look Ahead To Future

Right from the beginning it was evident that the Class of '77 would be different. The seniors show many talents. For the most part, the seniors have put these talents together for the benefit of P.H. and its activities. During their four years, the path the seniors followed changed direction many times, but the class held together as they journeyed on.

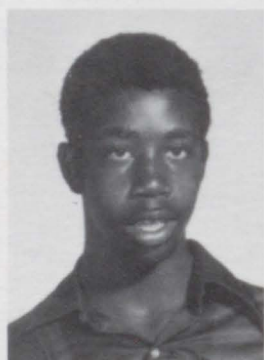

Although a disaster prevented the seniors from contending for first place in the float competition, they did make a significant contribution to the success of Homecoming.

After a good showing for the class picture in Marysville Park, the seniors worked hard raising money for their many activities. This included the record dance which did not go too well.

Class Of 1978 Sets Future Goals

The juniors set their goals early and have been determined to reach them ever since.

It all began with homecoming. The class officers, along with class sponsor Mrs. Marks, worked hard to produce a float that took first place honors away from the seniors, the usual float competition champions.

The juniors tried the usual money-making projects and worked hard to make the prom a memorable event.

As the school year ended, the juniors were making plans to help their senior class be one of the best ever at P.H.

Class Of 1979 Shows Big Red Spirit

The sophomores continued to exert their influence on the other classes by very early winning the Pep Jug.

Showing more pride than is usual, the Class of 1977 put forth a great effort in constructing an outstanding float and providing participation at all school activities.

Sophs brought in 546 cans to help others as their contribution to the Christmas canned food drive. In addition, they sponsored bake sales, car washes, and a year-long paper drive to try to build their treasury.

Sophomores Challenge Upperclassmen

Freshmen Off To Good Start

The Class of 1980 is off to a great start in Big Red Country. They joined together with tremendous effort to build a second place float. The Legend of Sleepy Hollow was easily seen displayed in the hall at Halloween.

At Christmas the freshmen constructed and sold Christmas ornaments. During pep assemblies the freshman spirit can be heard by all.

Bake sales were a huge success and many freshmen became involved in the Pot-pourri.
